Introduction

Social media has completely changed the game when it comes to marketing your business.

If your business isn't on social media, you're missing out on some huge opportunities for lead generation, growing your online community, increasing sales & nurturing your clients.

We know it can be overwhelming and a little intimidating. The platforms are always changing. It seems like there is a new trend, feature or algorithm update every week!

But when you are strategic with your marketing and plan and implement in advance, you can serve your clients better and grow your business, without feeling completely overwhelmed.

We're here to help you do exactly that. We want to see you succeed and social media is one of the quickest and most accessible ways to do that.

In this planner, we'll run you through how to plan strategically to make sure you're reaching your business goals.

Trying to build a brand on social media without a defined strategy will waste time and money.

You'll find yourself just posting for the sake of it and as a result, seeing little return for your efforts.

We'll show you how to build a strong organic presence, save time, use social media to reach your goals, target the right audience, be more creative and position you as the expert in your field.

We couldn't have made it simpler, so let's get started

Planning

When planning we like to start with the end in mind.
What's the objective?

What is it you're trying to achieve.

Marketing isn't always about getting leads and making sales - though these can be important objectives - you can include goals that relate to recruitment, brand awareness and nurturing your existing clients as well.

Review your business goals and then consider how the following objectives might support the outcome.

- Traffic to website
- Leads and sales
- Brand awareness and positioning
- Recruitment
- Growing email database
- Building an online community

Next work out, how you're going to do this. For example:

- Drive traffic to your website or a landing page
- Ask people to join your Facebook group
- Create a post people can engage with, save or share

Ideal Clients

Who are your ideal clients?

If your answer is 'Everyone!' chances are you're wasting your time and money and your content and targeting will be off the mark.

Not defining WHO you serve is a common and costly mistake made by many business owners, so don't feel that you are alone on this.

While it's easy to think that everyone needs your product or service, in reality that's not really true.

By trying to serve everyone, you end up doing a disservice to the people that need you most.

The products, services and content you create won't resonate with your audience, and you'll continually find you're attracting the wrong audience & clients.

You must develop a clear picture of who your customers/ideal clients are, the more detailed the better. Truly understand who they are and what beliefs, values, ideas and issues matter to them and be able to solve their needs/problems.

Insights

Social media insights are information about your audience from your social media channels - Facebook, Instagram and LinkedIn for example.

This information helps business owners develop a deeper understanding of their audience.

Tracking and reviewing your social interactions online allows you to:

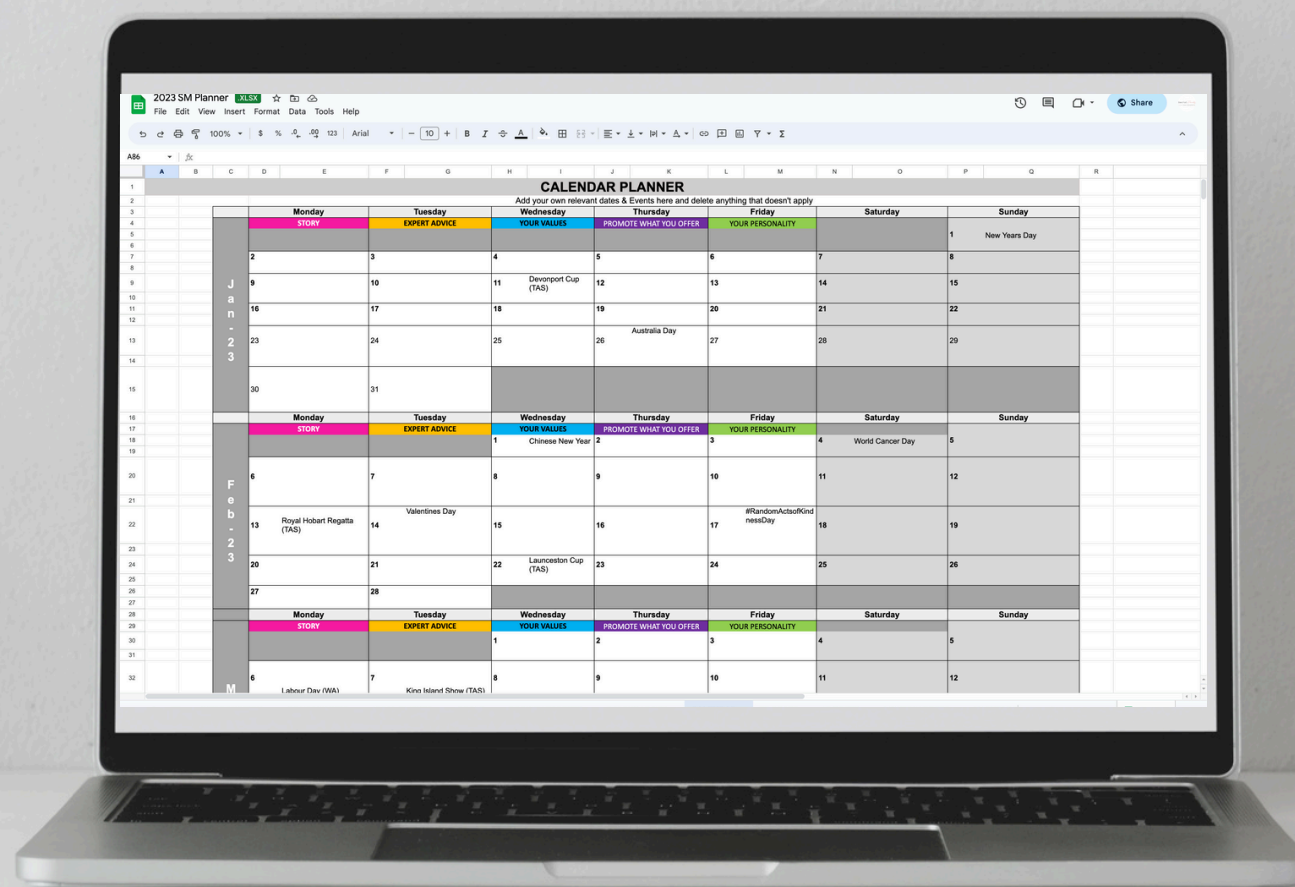

- Analyse your audience behaviours
- Understand consumer habits & interests
- And helps you to create effective marketing campaigns

Insights can include key audience demographics, like gender, age, and location. Moreover, they can be more complex KPIs that show how your followers feel or interact with your social media content.

All social media platforms will provide you with insights, as will any third party tools you use - like Linktree for example. We recommend you review these every month at a minimum.

The right insights will give you a roadmap that directs you to improve your social media marketing efforts for impactful results.

Our Social Media Planner has a section for recording and tracking insights that are essential to your business growth.
